Meissen, Vitruv Graphic, dinner plate 29 cm bisque

The dinner plate has a diameter of 29 cm and is part of the Vitruv Graphic series from Meissen. Inspired by traditional Japanese aesthetics, a special relief was created which is characterized by its modern straightforwardness. The elaborate shapes of the decorations lend the Meissen porcelain a simple yet luxurious appearance. The service's selection of bisque porcelain, glazed tableware and hand-painted Ming Dragon offers a wide range of combination possibilities for individual arrangements. This product can be complemented by numerous other items from the service, such as starter & dessert plates or service plates. The dinner plate is dishwasher safe and microwavable.

About MEISSEN®

The Meissen manufactory was founded in 1710 by Elector August the Strong of Saxony and is the oldest porcelain manufactory in Europe. Back in 1708, court alchemist Johann Friedrich Böttger created the prerequisite for the production of the "white gold" with the discovery of hard porcelain. MEISSEN® successfully combines its centuries-long tradition with the current zeitgeist: Modern service forms and decors complement the classic range and with the design duo ODEEH, the company has been able to acquire two progressive creative directors.

The business relations between MEISSEN® and Franzen have been in place for over 100 years. This long, intensive cooperation has played a key role in shaping the development of Franzen and has enabled the growth of a strong solidarity between the companies.
