Sometimes you don't want to finish the whole bottle so why not save the rest for later whilst keeping the fizz using this stylish, organically shaped Champagne stopper. Made especially to tightly fit the neck of a sparkling wine bottle, the stainless steel stopper has a tactile appeal that makes it beautiful as well as functional. It makes the perfect host gift or completes a larger collection of Sky barware.

French-born Aurélien Barbry describes his work as "aesthetic functionality", as it brings together both elegance and complete practicality. His Sky collection of table and barware for Georg Jensen is a great example of his philosophy with natural shapes applied to everyday products that are as useful as they are beautiful.

The champagne stopper is skilfully crafted from stainless steel with a mirror-polished finish. And comes in an elegant box, making it an ideal gift.
